

SATURDAY GAZETTE FEBRUARY 6

From Evening Post.
CHARLES KINGSLEY.
DIED JANUARY 24, 1875.

Weep for the noble dead,
At rest on England's soil—
His home and proudly ours;
His labor hardy done,
His ways are ever;—
The home of his powers
Beneath the silent sod;
Weep for the noble dead,
At rest with God!

Methinks 'twere better so—
The soldier in his rank,
The hero on the field—
The man in the bone;—
Better to fall in fight,
Expire upon a shield,
Than fail the war to wage,
And then to drop and die
In sad defeat of age!

The vineyard of the Lord
Is strewn with fallen fruit,
And only he can tell:
We only know God tell,
Ye bountiful souls of earth,
Eat ye shall do well;
My servant's lives I give,
Eat of the fallen fruit
And ye shall live!

No better food of Heaven
Than this life, that weep,
Sing a song and pure,
A spirit born to power,
A mind of gift and grace,
A life born to endure,
A manly life and strong,
The fearless friend to right
And foe to wrong!

Kingfisher, thy name shall live
While living, when we die,
And thou shall love to read
And never cease to growl
Beneath thy gen'us' spell,
The vigor of thy breed,
"Hyacinth," "Alton Locke,"
And "Kymys," heart of oak
And gen of rock!

All these shall tell us still;
How man may live and love,
And find a better life,
How every crown was won
Without a cross, peace
Never conquered but through strife
How only "grace and truth"
Are mirror of the Lord
For all to wrong!

The royal heart and true,
Whospeaketh while weep,
All glory to our God,
Whospeaketh what He gave,
And giveth holy sleep;
For thee a happy rest,
Thy memory in our hearts
Beloved, blest!

A. Z. G.

ESSEX COUNTY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

REPORTED FOR THE SATURDAY GAZETTE.

The Essex County Teachers' Association met at 10 o'clock A. M. on Saturday, the 30th of January, at the Eastern District School House, in East Orange, E. R. Penoyer, President, presiding, H. G. Howe, Secretary.

The meeting was opened by devotional exercises conducted by the Rev. Mr. Heden of East Orange.

J. L. Mann, Esq., of the East Orange Board of School Trustees, made the opening address. He was proud to welcome the Association, after two years of wandering in its birth-place—they had been years of honor and successful work. He spoke of the relation between teachers and parents, urging the necessity of harmony of action.

Mr. Randall, of East Orange, held the teacher responsible for the conduct of the schools. He thought there was not sufficient intercourse between teachers and parents.

Mr. Spaulding spoke of the pernicious effects of children reading bad literature, and thought that parents ought to look carefully to this subject.

Mr. Root, of Bloomfield, and Mr. Mitchell, of East Orange, followed in discussing the relation between teachers and parents.

The teachers' "Journal" was read by Miss Pringle of Bloomfield, in place of Mr. Starkweather, who was absent. This service was well performed, and the "Journal" proved an interesting sheet.

Mr. Sperry, Superintendent of Schools in Orange, presented a system of marking pupils for their examinations in school. This system was found to be exact and simpler than the ordinary methods used.

Mr. B. F. Park of East Orange, addressed the Association, detailing in an interesting way, some of the scenes witnessed in a trip through England. Many of the differences between the English and Americans were graphically portrayed.

Miss Bernice M. Maud, of the East Orange Public School, conducted some very excellent class exercises in language, teaching and elocution.

Prof. Bartlett and wife, of Orange, sang some songs and furnished some music.

The people of East Orange furnished a fine collection in the school room for all. Their liberality was appropriately acknowledged by resolutions of thanks by the Association.

The next meeting will be held in April, at the time of the annual Teachers' Institute.

NAMING CHILDREN.

The children has right to be individually to himself and no other; to maintain the life of the divine, and to be the witness of his death. And before this fact the mother, instructor, should stand reverently; seeking rather to understand and interpret its significance, than to wrest it from its original purpose. It is not necessary to be inscribed with the family name, nor written over with family traditions. Nature delights in surprise, and will not guarantee that the children of his parents will be the divinity, and the witness of his death. And before this fact the mother, instructor, should stand reverently; seeking rather to understand and interpret its significance, than to wrest it from its original purpose. It is not necessary to be inscribed with the family name, nor written over with family traditions.

To CURE HOARSENESS.—When the voice is lost, as is sometimes the case, from the effects of cold, a simple, pleasant remedy is furnished by beating up the white of one egg, adding to it the juice of one lemon, and sweetening with white sugar to taste. Take a teaspoonful from time to time. It is known effectively to cure the affection.

DIPHTHERIA has been very prevalent in Atrabia, and one of the most successful remedies is said to have been a few drops of sulphuric acid in a tumbler of water. The result of this mixture is said to be a coagulation of the diphtheritic membrane and its ready removal by coughing.

How to CURE FROSTBITTEN FEET.—While working in the shop I froze my feet very badly. Before I went to bed I had some mush made out of corn meal. I then took some tea and poured on boiling water. After putting the mush on my feet unfolded. After putting the tea on a piece of cloth, I lay on it the tea leaves, and bound the whole over the frosted parts. Doing this for two nights the frost was all drawn out.—L. D. MARTIN.

Factories of various kinds must, in the process of manufacturing, give off noxious vapors, but with the arrangements now known to science for disposing of these gases and consuming the smoke, there is little excuse for offending the nostrils, and still less for endangering health.

The child have a name that does not mean too much at the outset, but which he can fill with his individuality, and make by and stand for exactly the fact that he is.—Victoria Magazine.

After Dinner.

CHECK MATED.—When the blushing San Francisco bride showed the check for a hundred thousand dollars to her husband, he burst into tears and exclaimed, with intense fervor, "And even this shall not separate us."

WHAT HER MOTHER CALLED HIM.—A young scholar, the first day at school, was asked her name by the teacher, and replied, "Her father's name was the next question, and I did not know his first name. The teacher then asked her, "What does your mother call him?" "You know," said the child.

I'D GO FOR YOU.—A young lady in a store at Terre Haute, Ind., on Christmas eve, was looking at a music box that had just ceased playing. Wishing to hear it again, she attempted to start it, but with out success. "O, pshaw!" said she, "it won't go for me." One of the proprietors overhearing the remark stepped up and said: "I wish I was a music box—I'd go for you!"

"How much is your candy stick?" inquired a boy of a candy dealer, who had just ceased playing. "Six for five cents, five for four cents, four for three cents, three for two cents, two for one cent, one for nothing." "I'll take one." And he walked out, leaving the candy man in a state of bewilderment.

When a gentleman and lady are walking upon the street, the lady should walk inside of the gentleman, says an exchange, My!

A gentleman going up Sixth Avenue, New York, met a laborer, to whom he said: "Will you tell me if I am half way to Central Park?" "Faith, 'an I will," was the reply, "if you tell me where you started from."

Old bachelor uncle—"Well Charles what do you want now?" "Charlie?" "Oh! I want to be rich." Uncle—"Rich, why so?" Charlie—"Because I want to be petted, and Ma says you are an old fool and must be petted because you are rich. But it's a great secret and I mustn't tell!"

A gentleman was describing to Douglas Jensen, the student of the law, his marriage; his wife had been brought up in a convent and was on the point of taking the veil when his presence burst on her enraptured sight and she accepted him as her husband. Jerrard listened to the end of the story, and then quietly remarked, "She simply thought you better than men."

On arriving at Calais, France, to make the grand tour, an English lady was surprised and somewhat indignant at being termed, for the first time in her life, "a foreigner." "You mistake, madame," said she to the billet, with some pride, "it is you who are the foreigners. We are English."

The editor of a Cincinnati daily paper had a lively discussion upon the subject and the printer. He says that the printer is not to be accounted whatever; that they can't subscribe, they don't want to advertise, and the news they bring is not worth a cent. He advises that they stay in the place of departed spirits, where they be long. So say we.

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"

The editor of a country newspaper takes a task on his delinquent subscribers.

"To all those who are in arrears one year or more, who will come forward and pay up, we will give them a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."

A little girl reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I, never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said, "What did he do when he was said?"